On March 22, 2018 the Austrian biathlete Lisa Theresa Hauser has been awarded the “Fair Play Prize of German Sports” by the German Olympic Sports Confederation (DOSB) and the Association of German Sport Journalists. The 24-year-old convinced the jury with her particularly fair behaviour towards her German competitor Vanessa Hinz at the World Cup mass start race in Oberhof in January last year.

The Austrian had accidentally stepped on Hinz’ cane which thus fell and Hinz continued the race with one cane. Lisa Theresa Hauser demonstrated exceptional behavior at that moment: she handed Vanessa Hinz one of her own sticks so that Hinz could continue her race without hindrance. Consequently, Hauser went on with only one stick and was only concerned that her competitor should not suffer any disadvantage. This exemplary behavior was praised by the jury and impressed them through its fair gesture.

The award in the category “Special Prize” went to the rugby division of the USV Potsdam, which organized the 15th edition of the Sanssouci Cup for youth teams under the motto "Playing Rugby Against Right-Wing Violence and Boredom".

The 32nd Ordinary Congress of the ASKÖ, one of Austria's biggest and most important sport organizations representing Austria in the European Fair Play Movement, was held on Saturday, 14 April 2018, with a busy agenda including elections for various positions. President Hermann Krist was unanimously confirmed by the delegates for another four years. Mag. Petra Huber (Fitness and Health), Mag. Christian Hinterberger (Sport), Mag. Gerhard Widmann (Finance and Business) and Mag. Christoph Schuh (Strategy and Marketing) were re-elected as Vice Presidents. The whole EFPM Family congratulates the ASKÖ team and wishes them all the very best for their tenure and work ahead.

Proof that we can learn a lot from young athletes.

On a game of the Provincial Youth Championship Band B between F. C. Aprilia and Connect Calcio 5, the referee awarded a very dubious penalty to F. C. Aprilia. However, F. C. Aprilia's young striker Nicolò Francescotti, born 2005, did not agree with such decision. He deliberately kicked the ball out of the playing area. A nice lesson in style and Fair Play that earned him compliments by his team members, opponents, parents and the referee himself. The San Marino Fair Play Committee is happy and honoured to award the young Nicolò with the Fair Play Award.

Petra Kvitova received the Karen Krantzcke Sportsmanship Award for for the fifth time in the past six years. Karen Krantzcke (1946 –1977) was an Australian female tennis player who achieved a World Top Ten singles ranking in 1970. While playing on the Challenger circuit in the USA in 1977, Krantzcke suffered a heart attack while jogging. In response to her untimely death, the WTA instituted the Karen Krantzcke Sportsmanship Award which is still awarded annually to a female professional tennis player. This award highlights a player who conducts herself in a manner fitting of a professional sports figure and observes the rules of fair play, shows respect for others and is gracious on and off the court. Introduced in 1978, previous award winners include Kim Clijsters, Elena Dementieva, Ana Ivanovic, Lindsay Davenport, Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong-Cawley. Petra Kvitova said. “For me, it’s about on and off the court behavior, the respect for each other on the court and off the court. I’m always one who wants to fight on the court, but off the court we’re just normal people. I just love saying hi to everyone and smiling, not cross anyone. For me, it’s just nice to have those people. I’m just happy to see them. It’s about respect and appreciating each other. We need each other. We are fighters, we are opponents, but we are colleagues as well.
